This break marks when Defendants started paying Plaintiff weekly wages that satisfied the minimum wage requirements based on his hours worked
Now that Plaintiff's regular rate is above the minimum wage, Plaintiff's overtime rate is calculated by multiplying his regular rate by the over time hours and then multiplying that by .5
Column H, Weekly Overtime Wages Plaintiff Earned is now calculated by multiplying his regular rate by the over time hours and then multiplying that by .5 ($9.03 x 32 hours) * .5 = $144.48

* Defendants did not maintain pay records

72 hours worked is based on Plaintiff's recollection using his normal work schedule

Plaintiff's normal work schedule was 6 days a week and 12 hours a day

Plaintiff worked an estimated 72 hours a week

 This column is included only to show Plaintiff's regular rate was less than the minimum wage

 Because the regular rate was less than the minimum wage the standard overtime rate of $10.88 was used
The standard overtime rate is calculated by multiplying 1.5 by the minimum wage of $7.25
